Client Responsibility Acknowledgement

By filling out this form you are consenting to this agreement for individual or group coaching services. As a client of Grace Intel LLC, you agree that you are responsible for creating your decisions and results.

The Coach is a Certified Wellness and Empowerment Coach and a member of the International Coach Federation with a background in Intellectual Wellness leadership, to work with education around empowerment skills and/or leadership, communications skills, career transition, facilitator training and public speaking.

Client Acknowledgment

Upon request, the coach may give specific advice or suggestions, however it is ultimately the client's responsibility for making his or her own decisions determining the best course of action. The coaching relationship is in no way to be construed as psychological counseling or any type of psychotherapy. If the client feels the need for professional counseling or therapy, it is the responsibility of the client to seek a licensed professional counselor.

Confidentiality

Our coaching relationship is completely confidential. The coach recognizes that the client may disclose personal and private information; the coach will not at any time share this information with a third party unless on the occasion information shared could be a threat to the client or of others determined by law. The coach will not at any time either directly or indirectly use any information for the coaches own benefit. The coach will not divulge that the coach and client are in a coaching relationship without express consent of the client. The client, of course, is free to discuss the coaching relationship with anyone at any time. This confidentiality statement is intended to be as confidential as the applicable state or federal laws Grace Intel LLC in the employer's own company policy (if applicable) Grace Intel LLC allows. The coaching relationship is not privileged and, as such, the coach says records regarding work with a client can be subpoenaed.

Indemnification

The client shall indemnify and hold the coach harmless from any loss or liability arising from actions taken or situations created because of the coaching relationship.

Payment to be made prior to Services Rendered.
